

YUE YUAN, "TO COMPLETE" [2020]

RICHARD SERRA, "VERB LIST COMPILATION: ACTIONS TO RELATE TO ONESELF" [1967-1968]

to roll the biggest snowball in the world.
to crease a map and travel along the creases.
to fold a letter into a boat and send it to your friend.
to store a snowman in the refrigerator and wait until next year's snows.
to bend a spoon with your tongue.
to shorten working hours to leave time for dreaming.
to twist your head around like an owl.
to dapple a photo paper at different times of the day.
to crumple a map into a ball.
to shave yourself without a mirror.
to tear up a newspaper and reassemble it into a love letter.
to chip away at the paving stones to find the beach.
to split a violin in half and record the sound.
to cut off the past and start living again with a new name.
to sever the link between the fragment and the whole.
to drop a coin into the fountain and wish for nothing.
to remove everyone's memory of art.
to simplify your life by proudly doing nothing.
to differ from zero to one.
to disarrange the paintings in the Louvre for a day.
to open the refrigerator to reduce the room's temperature.
to mix all the sounds of rain throughout the year.
to splash a colour on Pollock's painting secretly.
to knot with your tongue.
to spill perfume all over the floor.
to droop your eyelids to watch the sun.
to flow with the wind.

to curve your arms around a tree, imagining your body is the last annual ring.
to lift a piano and sing a song.
to inlay a crack at your love with a promise.
to impress the moment of production on the back of each clock.
to fire the book "Pale Fire" to get warm.
to flood a cinema and film it.
to smear everyone's name in the world on your birthday cake.
to rotate in the same sense as the Earth.
to swirl around the air with an umbrella.
to support a crazy plan for no reason.
to hook up a wind-bell in your mind.
to suspend a plastic leaf on the tree.
to spread a rumor until it becomes true.
to hang a photo exhibition inside a photo booth.
to collect the secrets of everyone in the city and publish them anonymously in the newspaper.
Make a wish in an air of tension.
Make a sculpture in the absence of gravity.
The key of entropy is towards disorder.
Play the sound of nature to your potted plants every day.
Show nothing in a group exhibition, except your name.
Show the dust removal layer of the air-conditioning in the gallery.
Make an art of felting with wool for a sheep.
to firmly grasp the opportunity to change the world.
to tighten a screw with your nails.
to bundle flowers with the newspaper of the day.
to heap up all the items vertically at the time you check out.
to gather all the stars through your window.

to scatter a lie all over the world.
to arrange the books in a library by the number of pages.
to repair a sculpture based on a replica.
to discard the idea of making art.
to pair two gloves found in the street.
to distribute a stone in everyone's mailbox.
to surfeit of dreaming.
to compliment each other sincerely.
to enclose a newspaper of the day with the exhibition invitation.
to surround a lamp and wait for the bulb to burn out.
to encircle the moon with your fingers.
to dig a hole through the earth with a spoon.
to cover the ground with a map 1:1.
to wrap a gift in an Amazon box and send it to your friend.
to dig three holes in the ground and put your fingers in, imagining that the Earth is a bowling ball.
to tie all the boats together into an island.
to bind two kites together and let them fly.
to weave a rug for the desert.
to join a football match, both teams wearing the same uniforms.
to match up the dimensions of the planet to make a sculpture.
to laminate everything with an iron.
to bond all the ladders in the world, climb up and try to touch the sky.
to hinge on the weather to make art.
to mark where you are at the end of each page of a book when you are traveling, and finally, the book becomes a map.
to expand a map by imagination.
to dilute the ocean.
to light a match while walking in any direction, one after another, until the box is empty.

to modulate your voice to sing like you're in the shower.
to distill water from tears to make a coffee.
The sound of the sea is made up of each wave.
Show your artwork in the form of electromagnetic waves.
Escape from the feeling of inertia.
Make an ionization test in the rain.
Listen to each other to slow down the process of polarization.
Wait for the light of refraction to walk through your room.
Follow the wave of tide towards the sun.
Record the process of reflection and give it to different people to complete.
Tie a balloon on a sculpture to change the point of equilibrium.
Find the center of symmetry of a leaf.
Use the heat of the sweater friction to light a match.
to stretch your arms as much as possible to embrace all your friends at once.
to bounce on the trampoline to touch the sky.
to erase the memory of a flash drive in the microwave.
to spray paint directly on the floor until exhausted.
to systematize your everyday dream.
to refer to IKEA's manual to live a week in IKEA.
to force yourself to turn right at each crossroad until you're back to the starting point.
Map the place where you cried
Recall the location of each cloud an hour ago.
Clip together all the scenes shot in the context of museum in all the movies.
to be an artist out of time.
Look at a leaf of carbonisation and imagine the moment it fell.
to continue walking 100 steps, then try to walk back with 100 steps.

